

London Marriott Hotel Grosvenor Square announce the opening of the Mayfair Suite

London, England - 9 February 2009

As part of its multi-million pound refurbishment, the London Marriott Hotel Grosvenor Square is pleased to announce the opening of its new Mayfair Suite of meeting rooms today. Accessed by a new double marble staircase – a design feature in itself with a stunning vaulted ceiling and pendant chandelier – leading down from the lobby to the lower ground floor, this area is completely private and secluded from the hotel's main spaces. Divisible into four independent rooms, the Mayfair Suite seats 240 guests, theatre style, or 150 guests for dinner once fully extended. Equipped with state-of-the-art audio visual installations, including a 42" plasma screen in each of its sections, the room has been finished to the highest standards. Raw silk wall coverings and mood lighting set a glamorous tone for private dinners and receptions, while bespoke hardwood conference furniture complement refined surroundings for corporate meetings and events.

These new rooms join the existing Westminster Ballroom, one of London's largest pillar-free spaces at 8,000 square feet with seating capacity for 550 dinner guests. Now offering 13 meeting rooms, in addition to three Gordon Ramsay Private Dining rooms, the London Marriott Hotel Grosvenor Square is London's ultimate event destination.
